

SLAB YARD GUIDELINES

In order to better serve you in your slab selection process, we request that you review and observe the following guidelines

- Reviewing individual slabs is usually unnecessary, as sister slabs (from one lot number or bundle) will almost be identical. For safety reasons, we can move no more than three slabs. Please ask to view various colors before asking to move any slabs.
- For insurance reasons and to best serve you, all visitors must be accompanied by an employee when visiting the slab yard and warehouse.
- This is a working warehouse. Our employees will be loading trucks and unloading containers while you are in the slab yard. Please stay clear of the cranes and forklifts.
- Children under 13 years of age are not allowed in the slab yard or warehouse without being in a stroller or holding the hand of a parent. The slabs have sharp edges and can cause deep and serious wounds. The slabs are very heavy (over 800 lbs) and are dangerous should they fall.
- Please do not allow your children to pick up any pieces of stone from the ground. The edges are sharp.
- Our granite slabs are outside. Weather conditions may not permit us to move the material safely (especially if it is windy). In addition, any rain or moisture can darken the slabs. Depending on the penetration of the moisture and the humidity in the air, the slabs may take from 2 hours to up to 2 days to completely dry. Please keep this in mind.
- Your fabricator will provide pricing to you. We can guide you to pricing categories, however, our employees are not allowed to give pricing on the slabs.
- We will complete a Stone Selection report for you noting your color choices. We can hold slabs for 14 days with no deposit or obligation required.
- Small samples are available for the engineered marble and quartz. Some natural stone materials are either too fragile or too expensive to provide a sample chip off a slab. Alternate methods of sampling include cut tiles and/or photos.
- Complimentary beverages are available in the showroom. Please let us know how we may best serve you.
